AUGUR HOLE IN THE CHIMNEY.

I see by the Portland papers that some chaps in that city have formed a Temperance Society called the Telegraphic Spike Society. They drove a spike into a stump, and agreed that the first one that gets drunk is to pull it out with his teeth, or to pay a forfeit of ten dollars.—That Spike Club puts me in mind of a augur hole what I once seed in Georgia.

I was travellin' up the Cherokee country on some business, and stopped to stay all night at the house of a farmer who lived close by the road.

The family was composed of a man and his wife, and a son about twenty, and two beautiful, black-eyed daughters, about sixteen and eighteen years old.

They were plain people and lived in a hewed log house, but everything about 'em was neat and clean, and the place looked like they were getting along in the world right smart.

After supper was over, and I never shall forget the nice fried sassiges and good coffee and cream they gin me, Mr. Byers, that was the old man's name, ax'd me if I wouldn't jine him in a little chat by the fire, and a pipe, before gwine to bed. Of course I had no objection, especially, as I seed the gals gettin out their nittin work and was gwine.

We tuck our split-bottom chairs and drew up to the bright, blazing, light wood fire, [it was a hog killin time, and monstrous cold for the season] and fell to talking about the price of cotton, and the crops, and smoked our long cane handled pipes, while the old woman and the gals listened to us and went on with their work.

Bimeby I noticed, right in the hewed log over the fire place 'one of the biggest sort of augur holes.

The mantle piece above was fixed off with ornaments, and the very wall looked like it had been scowered with soap and sand that very day, it was so white and clean.

The big, dark augur hole looked monstrous ugly whar everything was so nice and tasty, and I could not help but wonder what upon yearth they left it thar for, right in the middle of the chimney piece, whar every body could see it.

I spose I must have looked at it pretty hard, for bimeby I seed Miss Fanny, the oldest gal, sort of smile at her sister, and they both looked at me, and then at the augur hole, and then kind of held down their heads and stole the mischievousest glances at one another that I ever seed.

Thinks I, what on yearth's that augur hole for? and I looked at it sideways while I talked to Mr. Byers, and tried to keep one eye on the gals to see what they was up to.

'I see,' ses Mrs. Byers, 'that you're wondering what that big augur hole is doing up thar in my chimney piece.'

'Well that's a fact,' ses I. 'I couldn't think what it could be for, if it ain't for the gals to hang up their stockings on Christmas nights.'

Both gals blushed dreadful, and Mr. Byers took a hearty good laugh.

'No, it ain't for that,' ses he. 'It's a fact its in a monstrous conspicuous place, & it spoils the looks of the fire place, & bothers the gals most terribly. But sir, that's one of the greatest of augur holes that ever was bored?'

Thinks I, what in thunder is that augur hole more than any other? and I got up and looked at it closely, the way the gals did laugh.

It was a two inch augur hole, and about three inches deep.

'Well sir, said Mr. Byers, 'that augur hole is worth a fortun to me, and I don't believe that all the men in Georgia could buy it from this family. Could it old woman?' ses he, chuckin his old wife under the chin, who had laid her knittin in her lap, and was looking at the augur hole with a smile on her face that made her look almost as handsome as her daughters.

'No,' ses she, 'that ugly hole has been a blessin to us, indeed.' And I tho't I seed a tear standin in her eye, and her voice sort o' trembled. By this time my curiosity was up to a terrible pitch to know what was the mystery about the augur hole. 'What's about it,' ses I, 'that makes it worth mor'n any other augur hole?' 'Well, I'll tell you,' ses Mr. Byers, nockin the ashes out of his pipe and handin it to the youngest daughter to put away. 'That augur hole has been the earthly salvation of this family. It's now fifteen years since I settled on this place. I cum here from Burke county, whar I once owned one of the best cotton plantations in the State, and as likely a set o' niggers as was to be found any whar. In old Burke when I was a young man, everybody used to keep spirits in their houses, and it is a common thing to treat one's friends with a good glass of toddy whenever they cum to see us, and to give the family bitters all around in the morning.

'I needn't hardly tell you that I soon got a liking for drink, and that drink soon got the better of me, and that the end I was a ruined man, before my oldest daughter was five years of age, and was sold out by the sheriff.

'I got a kind of idee in my head that the world didn't use me right, and that there was no use in my trying to get along no how, so the only satisfaction I had was to drink like a beast. I was a miserable devil then, and used to make every one miserable about me.'

Mrs. Byers put her hand to her face to hide a tear that was rollin doun her cheeks, and the gals stopped their knitting, and sot thar, and looked in the fire without sayin a word.

'My wife had a little coming to her from her father's estate, and her friends made out to save enough from debts to move us up here and buy this little place; and I promised to do better when I got out of my old haunts. Our beginning here was a monstrous poor one; but wife's spirit wasn't broke yet, and my boy was gittin big enough to help a little; so we went to work to build up a new home in the woods in good earnest. We went on for a while very well, till one day I went to town to the election, and thar I got drunk, and did not come home for three days, till they all thought I was murdered, and sent my little boy to try and find me. When I come home, I felt monstrous bad. I had broken all my promises, and I couldn't bear to look my poor wife in the face; but she forgave me, and I promised again. This time I made out to go to town twice and come home sober; but the third time I again got drunk, and got into a fight, which like to cost me my life.

'Well; after my wife nursed me up again, I thought I never would touch another drop of the infernal spirits, and I didn't for about three or four months. One day I went to town with my horses and wagon, to sell a load of fodder. I sold the fodder and got the money, and the man I sold it to sed I must take a glass with him on the bargain.

'Well I hung out for a while, but he stuck to me so hard, that bimeby I give in, and we tuck two or three drinks.

'The next thing I knowed of myself I waked up in a shuck-pen, about half a mile from the town, on my home. Wagon and horses, and all my money gone, and even my coat and shoes were missing. Some of the Murrellites that used to be about here, no doubt, came across me so drunk, that I didn't know whar, or they who I was, and jest cleaned me out of everything I had, and put me in the shuckpen to keep the hogs from eating me.

'When my wife and boy came and found me in that shuck-pen, if I'd had a weapon of any kind about me, I do believe I'd tuck my own life on the spot. But they got me home, and put me to bed, whar I laid about a week, wanting to die worse'n I'd ever wanted to get well before. But sally she stuck by me, and talked encouragin to me, till I was able to get about again. I know'd it was no use to promise any more to her, and she never ax'd me so. That made me feel monstrous bad and tried to think what I could do to make her have confidence in me again.

'One night while I was sick, the thought struck me. The morning, I got up, and went out to the shop and got the biggest augur I had and came into the house, and without saying a word, I walked right up to the fire place and borin that hole———'

'Name o' sense James;' ses she; 'have you lost your senses?' I bored away while she stood and looked at me, without saying another word. Thar!' ses I: pulling out the augur when I was done; 'when that hole grows up, then I'll take another glass of spirits!

Sally seen into my idee at once, and putting her arm round my neck cried like a child. I cried a little too, and may be I kissed Sally a time or two. But that's more'n ten years ago, and the augur hole ain't growed up yet.'

'And you———' 'Hain't touched a drap of liquor from that day to this.' Well' ses I if all augur holes could have the same effect it's a pity but one could be bored over every hearth-stone in the country.' It's an ugly monument sir: but it's a faithful monitor.'

I spose you hain't lost no more horses and wagons since?' ses I. 'No. Fortune has smiled on us from that day. If we ain't rich: we're as well off as our neighbors: with the same chance. And now instead of being miserable and degraded we are a happy and contented family.' You may well call it the greatest augur hole that ever was bored.'

'With us it's cum to be a sort of household deity. It's always that: like a never-sleeping eye: to watch over our actions, reminding us of the past and warning us of the future!'

Since my night with my Cherokee friend: there's been lots of good done for temperance: by Father Matthew: and the Washingtonians, and the Sons of Temperance—but I don't believe among 'em all there was a better temperance man than James Byers, or that there was a pledge better stuck to than he stuck to his AUGUR HOLE.

A NEW WAY OF ADORING

A certain green horn,
Touched with love to the core,
Called on a fair maiden,
Who opened the door.

He made a low bow,
And thus he began—
"O, I adore you,
My charming Susan,

'I'll a-door you too'
She answered at once,
And slammed the door to
In the face of the dunce.

The Woodcutter's Night Thoughts.

Welcome red and roundy sun.
Dropping lowly in the west,
Now my hard day's work is done,
I'm as happy as the best,

Joyful are the thoughts of home,
Now I'm ready for my chair,
Till to morrow morng's come.
Bill and mittens lie ye there!

Though to leave your pretty song,
Little birds it gives me pain,
Yet to morrow is not long,
Then I'm with you all again.

'WARES YURE HOSS?'

A New Orleans correspondent of the Spirit' furnishes the 'Delta with the following amusing story. It's e'en-almost put our nose out of joint.

Some years since when the State of Missouri was considered Far West there lived on the bank of the river of the same name of the State a substaintial farmer who by years of toil had accumulated a tolerable pretty pile of castings owing as he said principally to the face that he didn't raise much taters and inyuns and nite much of corn This farmer hearin that good land was much cheaper further south concluded to move there. Accordingly he provided his oldest son with a good horse and a sufficiency of the needful to betray his traveling and contingent expenses and instructed him to purchase two hundered acres of good land at the lowest possible price, and to return immediately home The next day Jeems started for Arkensas and after an absence of some six weeks returned home.

'Well James," said the old man, 'How'd you find land in Arkensaw?'

'Tolerable cheap, Dad.'

'You didn't by morne tu hundred acres did you Jeems?'

'No Dad not over tu hundred I reck on.'

How much money have you got left?'

'Nary red Dad cleand rite out.'

Why, I had no idee travelin was spensive in them parts Jeems.'

'Well! jest yu try it wonst and yule find out I reckon.'

'Well never mind that let's here bout the land, and———but Wer's yore hoss?

'Why, yu see Dad I was agoin along one day—'

'But War's yure hoss?'

'Yu hold on Dad and I'll tell yeu all 'bout it Yu see I was agoin along one day an I met a feller as said he was goin my way tew—'

'But War's yure hoss!'

'Dod darn mi hide ef yu dont shut up Dad Ill never git tu the hoss Well as we was both goin the same way, me and this feller jined cumpany and 'bout noon we hitched our critters an I set down aside up a branch and went to eatng a snack,—Arter we'd got thru this feller sez to me, Try a drap uv this ere red-eye stranger?' Wall! I don't mind sez I?'

'But War's yur hoss!'

'Kummin tu him bime by Dad, so me an this feller sot thar sorter torkin and drinkin and then he sez. Stranger let's play leetle game of Seven up' taking out uv his pocket a greasy, roun cornered pack uv keerds. Don't keer ef I du sez I. So we set up side of a stump an kummenced to bet a quarter up an I was playin him awfull!'

'But War's yere hoss?'

'Kummin tu him Dad. Bime by luck changed an he got tu winnin and pretty sune, I hadn't not nary nuther dollar.'—Then sez he Straner I'll gin yu a chance tu get even an play yu one more game, an we was both six and six and—'

'War's yure hoss!'

'Kummin tu him Dad, We was six and six an 'twas his deal—'

'Will yu tel me War's yure hoss!'

'Yes we was six and six an he turned the jack!'

'War's yure hoss?'

'The stranger won him a turning that jack'

WASHINGTON CITY D. C.

SATURDAY FEBRUARY 23 :: ::::::::::::1850,

NEW MEMBERS OF THE THIRTY-FIRST U. S. CONGRESS.

Hon. WILLIAM H BISSELL

Col. B. is a new member from Illinois, and comes in the room of Hon. Robert Smith. He is in the prime and vigor of manhood—tall and gracefully formed, with dark hair and lively blue eyes. But it is impossible to delineate the human figure accurately, while the person is seated, especially at a Congress desk. His appearance, however, is highly accomplished in all the blandishments of a gentleman and a scholar. He must have been a favorite with the Army, where he served the late war with honor as Colonel of the 2d Regiment of Ill. and was in the famous battle of Buena Vista. He has an oval face, moderately full, fair, but rather sunburnt. His lofty forehead, smooth and bland, bespeaks an ingenuous and buoyant mind, and much warmth of heart. His mild softened brow, composed and innocent, denotes a world of kindness and good nature. But it is principally the eye that governs his genial countenance. His eye is delicately shaded, blue—but the expression is peculiar particularly when he smiles, [which he always does when he speaks,] it shows a variety of dazzling tints, which imparts the most suasive charm to his countenance, which is [in our opinion] the evidence of intrinsic worth, or the want of it. In his manners Col. B. is of the old School, courteous and manly.

It is a singular fact that most, if not all, the public men we have from Illinois are noted for their general knowledge, and their amiable manners.

Hon. JOHN ROBBINS.

Mr. R. is a new member of the House of Representatives from Pennsylvania, and comes in the room of Hon. Charles J. Ingersoll, 4th District. He is a young looking man, little more than eligible we should think. He has a mild interesting appearance, peculiar to the citizens of Pennsylvania. He appeared [as he was seated] to be about the average height, and common size, rather slender, and neatly formed. His face is oval, rather so, partially full and fair, with delicate features of inimitable symmetry. His deep forehead of the grecian curve—calm as the sleeping lake, denotes modesty and a chaste cultivated mind, which expands the more, the more you gaze upon it. His delicately arched brow shows gentleness and stability of temper, with the stamp of peace. His dark glittering eye however surpasses all the expression of his fine classic features, and indicates a sincere and benevolent heart. His countenance is imbued with a child-like innocence—serene, and studious, is very imposing. In his manners Mr. R. is a pattern of that plain, and artless elegance which always distinguish good sense and good breeding, it strikes us his hair is black.

Hon. Thomas J. D. FULLER.

Mr. F. is a new member of the thirty-first Congress from Maine, and fills the place of Hon. Hesikiah Williams. He is a tall middle aged man, though still fresh and youthful in appearance, and partially grey. His figure is rather spare but neatly formed. His face is oval, fair and somewhat full, with a slight carnation glow, and regular features. His deep smooth forehead bespeaks a mind self-poised, and displays that smooth independence that neither fawns nor frowns. His meek stable brow the same—the same composure and undisturbed thoughtfulness. But his eye is one of singular expression, yet harmonizes with his other features. It is a dark hazel, remarkably full, liquid and steady as the rock of ages, while it betokens intellect and sound sense. In his manners Mr. Fuller is plain, and unassuming, and like the generality of the citizens of this noble State—has a native grandeur that commands respect.

Hon. WALTER BOOTH.

Mr. B. is a new member of the thirty-first Congress, from Connecticut, in the room of Hon. Samuel D. Hubbard. Mr. B. is a good specimen of the true warm-hearted Yankee, than whom better men are not to be found North or South, they do not all bend the knee to Baal. He is tall, stout, "fair and forty," meaning of middle age. His fine, full, jolly face is of the true English model, very fair, round and pleasant; stamped with a smile of good nature, mingled with a delicate ruddy shade. His forehead is of medium depth, smooth and tranquil, denotes probity and beneficence. His joyous brow indicates magnanimity and vigor of soul and body. His eye is a soft azure, gentle and suasive as the silent dew. His countenance open as day, shows that love for his fellow-man to which bigots are strangers. In his manners Mr. B., like the diamond, has a rough exterior, but internally pure and spotless.

Hon. W. T. HAMILTON.

Col. H. is a new member of the thirty-first Congress, and comes in the room of Hon. J. Dixon Roman. He is in the prime of manhood, with quite a showy and manly appearance, and a pleasing figure, over the common size. His small classic head, and brown hair is very becoming. The contour of his face inclines to the grecian, neither round nor oval, with fair delicate features of common fulness, and handsome symmetry. His high forehead shows intellect and erudition; while peace and contentment reposes upon it. His light brow, moderately arched, has a self approving firmness like him whose image he is. His mild blue eye, and free open countenance are extremely prepossessing, and bespeaks a heart and mind of no ordinary rank.

Hon. HENRY D. MOORE.

Mr. M. is a new member of the present Congress from Philadelphia Pa: and comes in the room of Hon Charles Brown, 3d District. Mr. M. is another young man to be in Congress. He is rather small, of common height, a light neat figure, though our opportunity of viewing his person was imperfect, and we can only speak of his features and countenance. His head is small, with rather light hair, and a bright airy countenance. His face is grecian in the contour, with delicate features of medium fulness, remarkably fair, and of good symmetry. His large open forehead would indicate talents and buoyancy of mind; adorned with the taste and refinement of the old School polish His light gentle brow shows a rich poetic fancy, and much good humour: His eye is blue, mild as May, and sheds a benevolent glow over his countenance. In his manners Mr M. is polite and gentlemanly!

Hon, SAMUEL R, THURSTON.

Mr. T. is the Delegate from Oregon, the first we have from that Territory: He is a young man, and has quite an intelligent appearance: He is about the average height, with a light genteel figure. His face is oval, of the middling shade, with a wide deep grecian forehead, compared with his other features which are delicate. His brow is bland, and the emblem of peace and suavity of temper.—His eye is a dazzling blue, and flows with human kindness; not a trace of that despotic bigotry of those who settled Oregon—in his fine open countenance, which bespeaks generosity of feeling and elegance of manners! Success to him!

POST OFFICE CORRUPTION, Continued from our last.

"On the back or outside of the above it has this address, 'P M, Helena Phillips Co. Ar. T.' To Messrs Bolles, Whitemarsh and BURROWS.

'Gentlenen :—I have viewed and reviewed considered and re considered the above card' and for the soul of me I can not determine what it really means nor what can be your object.—If you are in reality cross bearing Christians according to your information—determined to make every thing subservient to your notions of the Christians duties of man——then are you the more to be feared, inasmuch as you are aiming at such a long pull strong pull and to pull 'the Ministers of the Gospel of different denominations Exhorters Elders Deacons and several influential public spirited and benevolent persons, all together Let me ask you in candor, Do you really mean to send thro' the United States,—(for you know we are here in a Territorial form of government) a paper containing a Circular! What does the Circular contain, gentlemen that you wish to send through the U States? It may be some pious treason, for aught I know and to be candid with you I feel confident that it is an attempt to subvert our Religious Liberty. Is it not an appeal to fanaticism, to rally every where and take us by surprise. To me it has that appearance. Only look at this!

'To this sum add

For Bible Societies the sum of	,5000
For Missionary Societies Indians,	5,600
For TRACT Societies,	5,600
For Temperance Societies,	5,600
For Sunday school Societies	5,600
For Abolition Societies	5,600
For Emancipation Societies,	5,600
For Colnization Societies,	5,600
For Foreign Missionary Societies,	5,600
For all other societies of Deaf Dumb,
Lame Halt blind Infant &c.	10,000
Total,	$66,000

Now gentleman you know these figures will not lie however you may get out of this palpable fraud.—that you may not find the P. M's generally subservient to your object I most sincerely hope.'

To call such people Christians, is the most absurd mockery. See the vast sums of which they have defrauded the government; for though they failed in this instance they have succeeded with others throughout the whole country. This is the way they have increased until they have become the terror of the land.

All their frauds and schemes [for we watched them] turned upon one pivot viz. to get a majority in Congress, to which end they tried many schemes, but the last—Free Soilism has brought them forward with more facility than any they have tried; but they will never succeed. Their efforts shows deceit on the face of it. For not withstand in the people of California have settled the question themselves, the Church and state hangs on to the District of Columbia, and Congress must put down Slavery in "the District" Where did Congress get their power from, whence and where? The people send men here taken from amongst themselves to do business for them, and after two years their power to transact business ceases, and they again become the people, while they are doing business in Congress they have a guide the constitution; but does this give them the power to take such a step? If so let them put their finger upon it. Just let them rise upon this step of the ladder, and you will soon find the sum total of their putting down the sin of Slavery to be putting up gallows's, prisons &c.

We are opposed to Slavery ourself, and so are thousands of good people—nearly all Pennsylvania. But their remedy is worse than the disease!

Precious Genius—Peter Barnooks, come up and say your lesson.

What made Eve eat the foridden fruit?

Becauz she was tell'd she didn't ought to.

How do you know that made her eat it?

Becuz when our July was fordid to speak to the fellers she went and sit ride down in John Diddle's lap

The Richmond Whig tells a pretty fair story of a Virginia negro boy who professed to be dreadfully alarmed at avoid cholera He took to the words to avoid it and was there found asleep—Being asked why he went to the woods he said to pray 'But,' said the overseer, 'how was it you went to sleep?' 'Don't know 'zackly,' responded the negro but I spec I must over-prayed myself.'

Talk about getting a good deal out of alittle piece of land!' exclimed Simpson why I bought an acre of old Mr Ross up at Goose Fair, planted one acre of it with potatoes, and t'other corn—' 'I thought you said you bought only one acre Simpson' remarked a listner—' how could you plant

'Very easily sir—I stood it up on the end and planted both sedes of it!'

All I stop and stand about,
Well I know how things will be,
Judy will be looking out
Every now and then for me.

So farewell! and hold your tongues,
Sing no more untill I come,
They're not worthy of your songs,
That never care to drop a crumb.

All day long I have the oaks,
But at nights, yon little cot,
Where I see the chimney smokes
Is by far the prettiest spot.

Wife and children all are there,
To reivive with pleasent looks,
Table ready set and chair,
Supper hanging on the hooks,

Soon as ever I get in,
When my faggot down I fling,
Little prattlers they begin
Teasing me to talk and sing.

Welcome red and roundy sun,
Dropping lowly in the west,
Now my hard day's work is done
I'm as happy as the best.

Joyful are the thoughts of home,
Now I'm ready for my chair,

TO THE FRIENDS OF "THE PLOUGH LOOM, AND ANVIL."

POPULAR as this journal is, and so far successful beyond any heretofore established, its income is yet something short of paying its own expenses, leaving the editors to live on air or hope, neither of which is very substantial deit. Now, as we believe that we have not a friend who would willingly see the man want bread who has been more than thirty years teaching others how to make it, we at once frankly solicit our present patrons to use their influence to average one more subscriber each, and then "the Plough, the Loom, and the Anvil," and those who are working at it, will be doing what is commonly called a safe bussiness, and not until then. We are truly sorry to be under the necesity of making this appeal, for, could we afford it, we would rejoice, as on past occasions, to show that we would most willingly work as hard, gratuitously for the great industrial interests of the country, as we are now doing in the hope of at least a scanty support.

P. S. We shall not fail to note the favor if any kind brother Editor should give this a place in his paper to help along one of the oldest of the fraternity.

SATURDAY EVENING POST
UNRIVALLED INDUCEMENTS FOR 1850

A MAMMOTH PAPER!
DEVOTED TO MORALITY, PURE LITERATURE, FOREIGN AND DOMESTC NEWS, AGRICULTURE, SCIENCE, ART AND AMUSEMENT.

This paper contains from one-fourth to one half more than the generality of two Dollar city weeklies.

The Proprietors of the SATURDAY EVENING POST return their cincere thanks to their friends and the public for the patronage extended to them since the enlargement of their paper, and respectfully solicit a continuance of the same. The belief expressed in their last Prospectus, that the POST is destined to take its stand at the very head of the weekly press, is fast becoming realized. The reason of this is in a great degree, to be found in the stand the POST has always taken against the immoral literature of the day. The public have felt, in the language of the North American and United States Gazette, of this city, that "The Post has done much towards correcting the taste of the newspaper reading public."

The proprietors of the Saturday Evening Post, in coming before the public with a new Prospectus, would respectfully solicit attention to what they have done in the past, as a guarantee for their promises of the future. They may safely say that no other paper in America has given to its readers so large and well chosen an amount of all kinds of reading, elegant and useful imaginative and practical, during the last year as the Post. To say nothing of other tales and sketches, what paper has laid before its subscribers during the past year four such novelets as Henery Benson,' 'The child Stealer,' Isabel Denison,' and The Deserted Wife?'

And the proprietors of the Post are determined that if possible the coming year shall be even a more brilliant one then the past. To begin with they have already secured the following original contributions, which will be published and other choice pictures of life during the coming year:

The Baymouts. A Novelet by Miss Leslie; author of "Mrs, Washington Potts, &c., &c.

The Bride Of An Evening, A Tale Of Western Life A Novelet, by Mrs Southworth, author of "retribution,' 'The Deserted Wife,' &c

The Old Astrolger or, The Prophecy Fulfilled, A Novelet by T S Arthur, author of 'agnes or the Possessed,' the Child stealer,' &c,

The Belle And the Blue, A Novelet by Caroline Lee Hentz, author of "The Mob Cap,' 'Aunt Patty's scrup Bag,' &c,

TERMS.

The terms to single subscribers are 2,00 dols per annum, in advance, 3,00, if not paid in advance. For five dollars in advance, one copy will be sent three years.

TERMS TO CLUBS.

In order to accommodate the large number who wish to take a first class paper, but mistakingly think they cannot afford it, we continue the following low terms for Clubs—to be sent, in the city, to one address, and, in the country, to one Post Office:

A MAMMOTH ENTERPRISE

FAMILY MESSENGER AND NATIONAL GLEANER.

The undersigned having purchased the establishment of Alexanders 'Pictorial Messenger,' and Harding's 'Saturday Gleaner,' intends consolidating both papers and issuing a weekly journal under the above title.

It is designed to make it emphatically what its name implies a Family Newspaper, devoted to all the varied matters which will serve to render it a agreeable and useful weekly visitor.

This popular Newspaper has won its way to a high place in the estimation of the reading puolic as Family and News Journal and can boast a patronage such as it seldom acquierd by similar publications.

It will be the design of the proprietors by the introduction of new and attractive features to render it in future more worthy than ever of the favor it has received, and they naturally desire that their enterprice shold be aided by all who desire the prosperity and success of a Literary Journal of elevated character and high more tone.

The approach of the long winter evening will renddr such a paper an agreeable visitor in every family circle and the inducements offered to clubs are such as to justify the hope that active efforts will be made to increase our subscription 1st in eve y town and village throughtout the country.

Read, examine and compare and then judge whether the "Messenger and Gleaner' is not in an eminent degree, just such a paper as will give a zest to social intercourse, and prove in every respect, an unexceptionable fireside companion.

Besides furnishing choice literary articles, from the most approved authors, whose talents have been secured to enrich the columns of the Family Messenger and Gleaner, the current news will be given upon the latest period of the day of publication, and care will be taken to furnish our agricultural friends with a store of information, together with accurately prepared statements of the prevailing Markets, &c. &c.

It will be our aim to please the tastes of our readers, numbering as they do, thousands upon thousands, and we hope to be so successful in our endeavors, as to merit for "The Family Messenger and Gleaner.' the acknowledgment, on the part of the reading public, that it is not only, the cheapest but the best newspaper in the country.

PROSPECTUS
THE FRIEND OF YOUTH
A Monthly Newspaper.

Mrs. MARGARET L. BAILEY, EDITOR,

The Friend of Youth will be issued on the first of every mounth in quarto form, eight pages on fine paper, in neat new type, and with tasteful embellishments.

Our object will be to make the paper an attractive companion for youth. While we please, we shall also aim to form their tastes. In addition to agreeable Stories, Lessons on Natural History, Descriptions of Naturl Scenery, Sketches of Travel, and Notices of New Books for children, we shall converse, with them, in language adapted to their comprehension, about the important events of the present era. We know this is not usually done in such publications, but we think we do not mistake the taste or capacity of young people, when we suppose them to feel some interest in the world they live in, beyond the nursery, the school-room, and the play-ground. It shall also be our care to interest them on all great subjects connected with the well being of mankind. Freedom, Peace, and Temperence, shall receive our weep with the suffering, we hope to awaken in them a generous abhorrence of all wrong, and and an earnest love and reverence for all that is just and pure, and while thus inculcating the lessons of love to man, we can not forget the supreme obligations due to the great Father and Benefactor of all.

We hope to succeed in adapting our paper to all ages of youth, so that while the elder brothers and sisters have a fue share of our attention, the little ones shall not be forgotton. They are our special favorites, and shall be cared for accordingly.

To secure variety of entertainment, we have engaged as regular contributors to our columns, several well-known and distinguished writers, peculiarly qualified to minister to the wants of Youth. Among them, we are at liberty to name—T. S: Arthur and Emma D. E: N. Southworth. In short we hope to make the paper just such a "Friend" as young people will be glad to see, and sorry to part with.

As this Prospectus may reach many of the former friends and patrons of the 'Youth's Monthly Visiter,' a paper which we established and edited for nearly three years at Cincinnati, we cannot forbear expressing the great pleasure it will give us to renew our former intercourse with them. The little children who then received the 'Visitor' as a welcome guest, are now almost grown up men and women. But they will perhaps find some little brother or sister or cousin to whom they may introduce us as an old friend.

The first number will be issued on the first of November.

The terms will be—fifty cents a year for a single copy, five copies for $2, or every person forwarding us four names, with two dollars, shall be entitled to one copy gratis.

It is desirable that the names of subscribers be sent in with as little delay as possible. All communications must be addressed to—

DR TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA
Most extraordinary Medicine in the world

This Extract is put in quart bottles. It is six times cheaper, pleasanter, and warranted superior to any sold. It cures diseases, without vomting, purging, sickening, or debilitating the patient.

The great beauty and superiority of this Sarsaparilla over all other remedies is, while it eradicates disease, it invigorates the body.

IT HAS PERFORMED MORE THAN 15,000 CURES THIS YEAR.

1,000 cures of Rheumatism.
1,000 cures of Dyspepsia.
2,500 cures of General Debility and Want of Nervous Energy.
30,000 Female Complaints, and over 7,000 cures of Diseases of the Blood viz:

Ulcers, scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, pimples on the face, &c., together with nervous cases of consumption liver complaints affections, &c This, we are aware, must appear incredible, but we have letters from physicians and our agents from all parts of the United States informing us of extraordinary cures. R Van Buskirk, Esq., one of the most respectable druggists in Newark, New Jersey, informs us that he can refer to more than one hundred and fifty cases in that place alone. There are thousands of cases in the city of N. York which we will refer to with pleasure, and to men of character well known.

OPINIONS OF PHYSICIANS.

Dr. Townsend is almost daily receiving orders from physicians in different parts of the Union.

This is to certify that we, the undersigned physicians of the city of Albany, have eimmerous cases prescribed Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla and believe to be one of the most valuble preparations of Sarparilla in the Market.

P H. Puling, M. D. R. B. Briggs, M. D.
P E. Elmendorf, M. D.,

Albany, April 1, 1845.

The following is from one of the most respectable physicians on Long Island:

GREENPORT July 19, 1846.

DR. TOWNSENDS—Dear Sir—it is with satisfaction that I have recently witnessed, in several cases the most beneficial results from your extract of Sarsaparilla. Be engaged in the practice of medicine, I have prescribed it in several cases, and never without benefit. In the removal of diseases arrising from a deranged state of the disgestive organs, jaundice, &c if far exceeds any thing of the kind ever offered to the public. You will please send me two dozen, &c.

Respectfully yours,
C, S, PRESTON, M D.

UNITED STATES OFFICER.

Capt G W Melean, Member of the Legislature, and late of the U. S. Navy; has kindly sent us the following certificate. It tells its own story.

RAHWAY Jan. 25 1847.

A year since I was taken with the influenza and my whole system left in a debilitated state. I was induced to try Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla,

B. after taking two or three bottles, I was very much relieved, and attributed it entirely to the said Sarsaparilla. I have continued taking it, and that I improve every day. I believe it saved my life, and would not be without it under any consideration.

G W. McLEAN.

SCROFULA CURED.

This certificate conclusively proves that this Sarsaparilla has perfect control over the most obstinate diseases of the blood. Three persons cured in one house is unprecedented,

THREE CHILDREN.

DR. TOWNSEND—Dear Sir, I have the pleasure to inform you that three of my children have been cured of the scrofula by the use of your excellent medecine. They were afflicted very severely with bad sores; having taken only four bottles; it took them away, for which I feel myself under deep obligation.

yours respectfully,

THE GLOBE,
Congressional, Agricultural, and Literary Newspaper.

The Editors of the Congressional Globe propose a new publication. To deserve the patronage which Congress has accorded to their reports of its debates, in receiving and making the Globe the official register, they intend to add promptitude to whatever merit has hitherto recommended the work. They will publish a Daily Globe, to record the proceedings and debates as they occur, and a Congressional Globe periodically as heretofore, embodying the reports of Congress separate from the miscellaneous matter which will accompany them in the daily print. To fill the sheet of the daily newspaper, it is designed to gather the news from all quarters, and complete the contents by drawing from every source what ever may be of most interest among literary novelties, and of greatest utility in science, art, or agriculture. For material the leading journals and periodicals of France and Great Britain, treating of such subjects will be consulted and it is hoped, advantageously used. Original essays, especially on topics connected with agriculture, wil be obtained from the most enlightened land practical men of our country.

The Globe as a newspaper, and as a vehicle of information and amusement in other respects will be under the charge of Francis P. Blair and James C. Pickett. The Congressional department and business concerns of the paper will be under the management of John C. Rives. The public are familiar with Blair and Rives as connected with the press. In introducing Mr Pickett as one of the concern they will be allowed to say a few words of him. He is a gentleman favorably known to the Government, for the talent and judgment which distinguished his diplomatic service while connected with the mission to Quito, and more recently when Charge d'Affaires to Peru. From him mainly the Globe will derive the selections and translations from the foreign continental journals and periodicals, the comments on them and the other literary articles which will be found among its chief attractions. F. P. Blair will give his attention principally to the English periodicals.

The Globe will be published daily during the session of Congress and weekly the balance of the year and will undergo distribution in the form of a Weekly Globe, a Congressional Globe and Appendix.

The Weekly Globe will contain agricultural and miscellaneous articles.

The Congressional Globe will embody as it has done for the last sixteen years, Congressional proceedings and debates exclusively.

The Appendix will embrace the revised speeches separately and the messages of the President of the United States and the reports of the Heads of the Executive Departments.

The Congressional Globe and appendix will be published as fast as the proceedings of Congress will make a number Subscribers may expect one number of each a week during the first four weeks of a session and two or three numbers of each a week, afterwards, until the end of the session.

Complete indexes to the Congressional Globe and appendix, will besent to subscribers soon after Congress adjourns.

TERMS.

For one copy of the Daily Globe daily during the session of Congress, and weekly during the recess, a year, $5 00
For one copy of the Weekly Globe one year, 2 00
For one copy of the Congressional Globe during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00
For one coppy of the Appendix during the present session, if subscribed for before the first of January, 1 00
For six copies of either the Congressional Globe or the appendix, or part of both, 5 00

The subscription for the Congressional Gobe or the Appendix after the 10th of January will be $1 50. The original price of one dollar does not pay the expense of the publications in consequence of the great increase of matter published.

TO THE FRIENDS OF "THE PLOUGH LOOM, AND ANVIL."

POPULAR as this journal is, and so far successful beyond any heretofore established, its income is yet something short of paying its own expenses, leaving the editors to live on air or hope, neither of which is very substantial deit. Now, as we believe that we have not a friend who would willingly see the man want bread who has been more than thirty years teaching others how to make it, we at once frankly solicit our present patrons to use their influence to average one more subscriber each, and then "the Plough, the Loom, and the Anvil," and those who are working at it, will be doing what is commonly called a safe bussiness, and not until then. We are truly sorry to be under the necessity of making this appeal, for, could we afford it, we would rejoice, as on past occasions, to show that we would most willingly work as hard, gratuitously for the great industrial interests of the country, as we are now doing in the hope of at least a scanty support

M'MAKIN'S MODEL AMERICAN COURIER,

The Courier is neutral in Politics and Religion and independent on all other subjects of public interest. General Editor, ANDREW M'MAKIN, whose association with, and editorship of the Courier for thirteen years have received the warmest commendation from the Press and the people all over the Union, Associate editor T. S Arthur author of Riches Have Wings Rising in the World Six Nights with the Washingtonians, "Maiden Wife and Mother 'Sweethearts and Wives' Lovers and Husbands,' &c'

The Publisher deems it wholly unnecessary to occupy time and space in further comment of either the moral literary or typographical character of American Courier, it having become proverbial for its chasteness usefulness and general excellence but a few disinterested endorsements may be given as credentials of the Press. viz:

From the "Montreal Transcript.' 'Then the American Courier a better paper is not published in the United States'

From the Boston Mirror. 'The American Courier has blended within its massive columns a combination of all that is choice and elegant in modern literature.

From the 'Warsaw Ill. Reporter.'— is emphatically the great 'Model Newspaper'.

From the 'Thomaston Me. Recorder.'—'It is the paper of all papers in the literary world'

From the 'N. Y. National Standard.'—"The handsomest paper in the United States"

From the 'Williamsburgh Ohio Hearld.'—'The cheapest newspaper in the world'

From the 'Pittsburgh portestant Unionist.'—'It renders competition utterly hopeless.'

From the 'New Jersy Advocate.'—'It is a Model which very few of us are likely to come up to.'

From the 'Louisiana Me. Democratic Banner.'——"If you want a paper containing a perfect feast of reason and a flow of soul,' subscribe for the American Courier.'

The editor of the American courier feels confident that not a pledge will be required of time to the character of the new paper, other than that it will be a family newspaper, neural in politics and religion; chaste in morality and moderate but elevated in tone and sentiment. His long connection with the "Saturday courier,'—which, under at least his co editorship, reached the largest similar circulation in the world,—will be ample pledge that every intelligent and respectable family in the land may safely confide in his taste, judgment and energy, with the aid of comparatively unlimited capital, to cater for their mental appetite

The contents of the American Courier.

Among the standard features of the american courier, will be—a new series of 'Washington Legends,' by George Lippard, esq. The 'portrait Gallery' of poets and their poetry—each Biography Illustrated, Original domestic tales, by the most distinguished writers of the day. Original essays, sketches, poems, and letters on useful and important subjects. Engraved views of persons, scenes and things of interest Select tales from the best english and american authors.
